You replied on 11/30/2005 4:11 PM.
To help protect your privacy, links to images, sounds, or other external content in this message have been blocked. Click here to unblock content.
The sender of this message has requested a read receipt. Click here to send a receipt.

[redacted]

From: [redacted] Sent: Mon 11/28/2005 3:35 PM
To:
Cc:
Subject: FW: Activist Spokesman Urges Murder of Slaughterhouse Workers and Poultry Executives
Attachments:

This e-mail came during this same time period. The document is from 2003. Thanks! [redacted] b6 b7C

Best regards,

[redacted]

"Dedicated to the protection of our team members, our assets, and our brand."

From: [redacted]
Sent: Wednesday, November 16, 2005 7:39 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: FW: Activist Spokesman Urges Murder of Slaughterhouse Workers and Poultry Executives

fyi, in case you didn't see this.

[redacted] b6 b7C

From: Animal Agriculture Alliance [mailto:info@animalagalliance.org]
Sent: Wednesday, November 16, 2005 12:54 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Activist Spokesman Urges Murder of Slaughterhouse Workers and Poultry Executives

For Immediate Release
For Further Information, Contact: Philip Lobo, Communications Director
Phone: (703) 562-5160
Date: 11/16/2005

Activist Spokesman Urges Murder of Slaughterhouse Workers and Poultry Executives
ARLINGTON, VA - On 60 Minutes, television's highest rated news program, Dr. Jerry Vlasak who claims to be a practicing trauma surgeon in southern California, advocated for the murder of slaughterhouse workers and poultry company executives. Vlasak has been quoted as saying, "I think for five lives, ten lives, 15 human lives, we could save a million, two million, ten million nonhuman lives," about medical researchers at a 2003 animal rights conference.

When reporter Ed Bradley asked Vlasak who he considers to be "fair game" for animal rights extremists,

(Rev. 01-31-2003)

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Precedence: ROUTINE Date: 12/01/2005

To: Little Rock

From: Little Rock
7/Fayetteville RA
Contact: SA [redacted]

Approved By: [redacted]

Drafted By: [redacted]

Case ID #: 9A-LR-43401 ~~(Pending)~~ - 1

Title: UNSUB(S);
[redacted]
EXTORTION

b6
b7C
b7E

Synopsis: O & A.

Details: On November 28, 2005, writer was contacted by [redacted] Tyson Foods, office [redacted] cellular [redacted] who provided that they had received two threatening messages through their website at www.tyson.com.

b6
b7C

The messages, which were submitted to Tyson Foods through the feedback section of their website, specifically threatened to kill [redacted] as well as their families. Both messages appeared to originate from [redacted] using IP address [redacted] A copy of these e-mails, dated 11/06/2005 and 11/15/2005, were provided to the writer and placed in the file.

b6
b7C

A third message, sent directly to Tyson employee [redacted] on 11/16/2005, purported to be from the Animal Agriculture Alliance at info@animalagalliance.org. The e-mail included an article which discussed a supposed 60 Minutes special that aired in 2003 in which individuals such as Dr. Jerry Vlasak and Rob Coronado justified the murder of slaughterhouse workers and poultry company executives in the name of animal rights.

The e-mail appeared to be a solicitation by the Animal Agriculture Alliance and offered a course titled "Practical Anti-Terrorism Training for Food, Agricultural and

Nove O+A
#9 9A
SA [redacted]

SEARCHED ____ INDEXED ____
SERIALIZED ____ FILED ____
DEC 5 2005
FBI - LITTLE ROCK

b6
b7C
b7E

Vlasak responded, "Animal researchers, slaughterhouse workers, the head of the corporation that slaughters hundreds of millions of chickens every single year for the taste of their flesh."

When Bradley inquired about bombs--both incendiary and shrapnel-packed--that were used by extremists in California and Colorado, including one that had a primary explosion and then a secondary explosion designed to injure police, firemen and other emergency responders, Vlasak replied, "I think it's sort off disingenuous to say 'Well, we can burn down buildings. But we can't use explosives. Or we can use explosives. But we can't do anything that might harm a person.' I think what we have to do is look at the big picture. We have to look at what works."

The 60 Minutes report also featured Rod Coronado, who claims to be a former Animal Liberation Front (ALF) leader, widely-credited with introducing arson to the "cause." When Coronado's defense, funded by People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) failed, he spent four years in prison for setting six fires, including one at Michigan State University. Coronado, who "just happened" to have a speaking engagement in San Diego after a firebomb caused over $15 million in damage to a condominium complex, claimed that "arson has become a necessary tool."

The Animal Agriculture Alliance (Alliance) deplores the extremist rhetoric of these people and condemns the dangerous tactics they promote. The Alliance urges those involved in animal agriculture--especially poultry company executives and those involved in the security and management of processing facilities--to participate in the fifth session of the popular course Practical Anti-Terrorism Training for Food, Agricultural and Animal Industries: A Common Sense Approach to Preventing Attacks. The course is conducted by the Law Enforcement Academic Research Network, Inc. (LEARN) and will be held January 9-11, 2006 in San Antonio, Texas. Registration is available online at www.learninc.us.

For more information on the course, contact Philip Lobo at the Alliance, telephone (703) 562-5160, e-mail info@animalagalliance.org or LEARN at telephone (901) 219-9917, e-mail info@learninc.us. All registrations must be submitted in advance of the course.

The Alliance is a non-profit organization that supports animal agriculture by communicating the important role of animal agriculture along with reliable science-based information on animal welfare. LEARN's antiterrorism training team prepares those in both public and private sectors to protect critical infrastructures from internal and external threats.

Copyright © 2005 Animal Agriculture Alliance. All rights reserved.

Subscribe a person to the Alliance email list.
Unsubscribe from Alliance email list.

This email and any files transmitted with it are ~~confident~~ial and intended solely for the use of the addressee. If you are not the intended addressee, then you have received this email in error and any use, dissemination, forwarding, printing, or copying of this email is strictly prohibited. Please notify us immediately of your unintended receipt by reply and then delete this email and your reply. Tyson Foods, Inc. and its subsidiaries and affiliates will not be held liable to any person resulting from the unintended or unauthorized use of any information contained in this email or as a result of any additions or deletions of information originally contained in this email.